

The Widow

Kate Rusby

♩ = 110

A

Tr. 8 High u-upon a lone-ly moor a wi-dow lived a - lone An inn she kept, and as she slept, the pi-llow heard her

Tr. 16 moan "Oh man-y is the trav'ler who's spent the night with me, There's not a man in all cre-a - tion gives con-tent to

Cl.

Tr. 24 p [B] me. Oh some can man age once or twice, and some make three or four, It seemsto me a rar - i - ty is a man who can do

Cl.

Tr. 32 more. I'll do an - y-thing to find him, in Hea-ven or in Hell." And as these words were spo-ken, then she

Cl.

Tr. 39 heard the front door-bell. And the wind blew cold and lone-ly a - cross that wi - dow's

Cl.

Tr. 45 moor and she ne - ver e - ver turned a - way a tra - ve - ller from her

Cl.

Tr. 49 [C] door. [D] So bold-ly then the wi-dow ran & the door she o-pened wide, And as she did a
(All women)

Cl.

Tr. 58 tall and hand - some stran - ger stepped in - side. She gave him bread and brand- y, and

Cl.

63

Tr. when that he was fed, He said, "Me dear, now have no fear, it's time to come to bed. For I've

Cl.

69 E

Tr. heard your call way down be low and I've come to see you right. But you must come to Hell with me if I can last the night." She

Cl.

77

Tr. said, "You ran-dy de-vil, to this bar gain I'll a - gree, For Hell on earth or Hell in Hell, it's all the same to me." And the

Cl.

85

Tr. wind blew cold and lone - ly a - cross that wi - dow's moor and she ne - ver e - verted a-way a tra - ve - ller from her

Cl.

92 F

Tr. door. (Annelli solo) So

Cl.

100 G

Tr. then they both fell in - to bed & the de vil was work-ing well. He thought be-fore the night was through that she'd be in his

Cl.

107

Tr. Hell. But when they came to num ber nine the wi-dow cried out, "More!" And when the twelfth time came a-round a-

Cl.

114 H

Tr. gain she cried for more. At twen-ty five the de - vil felt com-pelled to take a rest. The wi-dow she said, "Come

Cl.

121

Tr. raise your head and put me to the test." At six - ty nine the wi-dow laughed,"A - gain, a- gain!"she cried. The

Cl.

128

Tr. de-vil he said,"Well I can see just how your hus-band died." And the wind blew cold and lone-ly a -

Cl.

134

Tr. cross that wi - dows' moor and she ne - ver e - ver turned a-way a tra - ve-ller from her door.

Cl.

140 [I]

Cl.

153

Tr. At

Cl.

164 [J]

Tr. nine-ty nine the de - vil he be gan to cry and weep. He said,"I'll give you an - y-thing if you let me go to sleep." Be-

Cl.

172

Tr. fore the morn-ing light was up the de - vil ho-bbled home, The wid - ow, still not sat - is-fied, once more was left a - lone.

Cl.

180 [K]

Tr. There she lay and grum-bled as she thought of nine-ty nine. "If on - ly that old de - vil could have made it one more time! I'll

Cl.

188

Tr. call him up a - gain to-night and see what can be done. With a bit more a-ppli - ca tion, he could have made the ton." But

Cl.

196 L (All women)

Tr. when she called to him that night, no de-vil did a-pear. For the first time in e - ter-ni-ty the de-vil shook with fear. He

Cl.

204

Tr. said,"Of all the tor-ment I've wit ness ed here in Hell, I ne ver knew what pain was 'till I rang your front door bell."

Cl.

212

Tr. And the wind blew cold and lone ly a-cross that wi dow's moor and she ne ver e verturned a-way a tra ve ller from her door.

Cl.

221 M

Tr. And the

Cl.

229 N

Tr. wind blew cold and lone-ly a-cross that wi-dow's moor and she ne-ver e-vertur ned a-way a tra -ve -ller from her door. And the

Cl.

237

Tr. wind blew cold and lone-ly a-cross that wi -dow's moor and she ne -ver e -vertur ned a-way a tra -ve -ller from her door.

Cl. decres.....