

Indeed it was amazing Wayne.

I was extremely moved when the elderly ladies performed as it reminded of so much my youth where we would stand around the piano and sing. My mum passed away in December last year and although she was 93, it still feels as if we had things to do and how she would have loved your concert. The elderly gentleman, similarly reminded me of my dad who passed away in 1994. I never expected to feel so emotional but there we go.

I did book and was one of those in the kitchen for the first half so I have learnt and will get there early next time!
