Eclectic musicians prove a chapel hit

A GOOD sized crowd filled the St Joseph's Mount chapel last Friday to hear a performance by Northern Beaches troupe Loosely Woven.

Loosely Woven is an "ad hoc" group of 35 performers who play an eclectic range of instruments, including strings, clarinets, flutes, saxophones, harp, guitar, keyboard, mandolin and accordion.

The performance was well received and was a great start to the weekend for Rahamim, which also celebrated the first harvest of its new community garden.

ENTERTAINING: A good sized crowd enjoyed the concert in the St Joseph's Mount chapel.
